

Anna is a 2005 graduate of Southwestern University School of Law. While in law school, she clerked for the Los Angeles County Public Defender's office in both the juvenile and adult court systems. Anna was actively involved in the Public Interest Law group and served as the President of the Latino Law Student Association. She also volunteered with the Los Angeles County Bar Association's Domestic Violence Project helping victims obtain restraining orders against their abusers. Anna received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science from Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Oregon. While at Lewis and Clark Anna co-founded the Hispanic Student Union and worked to raise awareness of issues confronting minority students on campus. She also took an active part in Take Back the Night, an organization dedicated to combating sexual violence against women. In addition, she participated in an off-campus program spending a semester in Washington, D.C. where she interned with a civil rights attorney and conducted significant research in the area of racially hostile work environments. Anna most recently worked in at the Law Offices of Martin & Martin, LLP and handled both education and employment-related cases.
